Mentor Sponsorship

For the New Professional Engineers Recognition Dinner

Become a wise and trusted professional to a New PE

There is a general acceptance that most people achieve better levels of professional success if they have the guidance and help of a mentor; someone with whom they can discuss their career plans, evaluate options and achievements, and work through issues.

We define a mentor as a suitably experienced person, who is willing and able to act as a helper and guide to another engineer, and to stimulate effective professional development.

Benefits of the Mentor Sponsorship:

- Featured in the Georgia Engineer Magazine
- A guest at the New PE Recognition Dinner
- Company listed in the event program
- Company and Mentor acknowledged from the podium at the event
- An opportunity to give back to the engineering profession

Benefits for the Mentor:

- satisfaction from helping others and seeing them progress
- deeper and broader knowledge of their own and other organizations
- opportunity to practice and develop management skills
- job enrichment and the chance to build wider networks
- increased self-confidence and higher visibility within the engineering community

Benefits for the Employer of the Mentee:

- faster, more effective induction
- retention of quality staff
- enhanced transfer of skills
- gains in productivity and the performance of individuals
- increased on-job learning that reduces off-job training costs
- better communication, commitment and motivation
- a cost-effective method to enhance staff development
- a stabilizing factor in times of change
